

Living Shoreline Initiative

Citizens, students and scientists working together for a healthy San Francisco Bay

Collect and count oysters in the Bay! Assist us monitor and restore native oysters.

DATE: August 7 - 12, 2010

TIME: Varies by date

LOCATION: Multiple locations in Contra Costa, Alameda and Marin Counties

Volunteer for multiple days!

The Living Shoreline Initiative connects youth and adults to the unique ecosystems along the shoreline of the San Francisco Bay. As a volunteer, you will have the opportunity to meet local marine scientists and learn about their efforts to restore the native oyster population along the Bay. This project will generate usable data for the Oyster Working Group.

For more information, or to RSVP, please contact:
Christopher Lim at (510) 665-3430 or chris@thewatershedproject.org.

